CITY SPECIALS.

Anheuser-Busch.
New HAVES, December 15, 1889.
The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen—The sample of Faust Beer lately received from you for analysis has in 100 parts by weight the following composition:

Total solid extract..... 6.880
Alcohol..... 3.300
Carbonic acid gas..... 350
Water..... 80.775
100.000

Systematic search has failed to show the presence of any adulterant, and the composition is very similar to that of the best Beer of Munich and Vienna. Yours, etc.,
S. W. JOHNSON,
Professor of Chemistry, Yale College.
Washington Branch:
First street and Virginia avenue southwest.

Fair Dealing, Fair Terms and a Good Article is John Rudden's Motto.
He sells for cash, but scarcity of money need not deprive any one of home comforts. A small cash payment, as an evidence of good faith is all that is required at first, and future payments can be made monthly or weekly, to suit the purchaser. Goods delivered on first payment. This is the plan pursued in the past, and the same course will be continued at the Cash and Credit stores of John Rudden, 429 and 527 Seventh street northwest. Give him a call.

The Latest Wonder.
Humphrey's Wine Parlor. The phonograph sings and repeats all the latest songs and sayings. The only original Motography, by Mr. Flynn, a concert within itself. A fair brass band every night. Shaffer and Bakker's latest success. "The Nigger and the Bee." The Professor's latest success on the banjo. 415 Thirteenth street northwest.

Houghton & Co.'s Spring Specialties.
This firm is in receipt of many specialties in the newest styles of spring goods. Their stock is complete in all the latest styles of furniture, upholstery, decorations and the unlimited assortment of nobly specialties. This prominent business house is centrally located at 1115 and 1227 F street northwest, and keeps in stock the same class of goods that can be found in any first-class store in New York. The accommodations are far superior and the price of the goods are the same. All good citizens desiring to build up their beautiful Capital City will certainly patronize the local merchants, especially this liberal and fair-dealing firm.

Spring Lamb.
For spring lamb and Washington dressed feed go to J. R. Kelly, Ninth street wing, Terro Market, and N. L. Market, Fifth and K streets.

For Washington Dressed Beef
go to John R. Kelly, stalls 628, 629 and 630 Centre Market, and 293 and 308 Northern Liberty. Corned beef a specialty.

A GANG OF THIEVES.

Carroll Diving and His Accomplishes

Sent to the Reform School.

George Carter, better known as "Black Tom," is still alive to day, but his chances for recovery are not much better than they were yesterday. He frankly admits that the object of his visit to Lee Quong's laundry was for robbery and does not seem to hold any animosity towards the Chinaman.

Lieutenant Hoffman says the police have found two additional places which were robbed by the gang on Sunday night, making eight in all.

Henry Jeffries and William Saxty, two boys aged respectively 13 and 14 years, and Joe Hunter, aged 16, all charged with having been implicated in the robbery of the laundries, were before Judge Miller this morning. They were all sent to the Reform School.

For a New Episcopal Church.

The nice little sum of $7,740 was subscribed last night, at a meeting held by residents in the neighborhood of DuPont Circle in the chapel corner of Eighteenth street and Massachusetts avenue, toward the fund for buying a lot corner of Eighteenth and Madison streets, upon which it is proposed to erect a new Protestant Episcopal Church. Rev. J. A. Appleton, the rector in charge of the chapel, presided at the meeting, and a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions. Remarks were made by the Rev. Dr. Elliott, rector of the Church of the Ascension.

Threw Down His Revolver.

Edward Carroll, a colored man, who claims that he carried a gun for his protection late at night in "Swampoodle," was arrested by Officer Bateman last evening as a suspicious character. When approached by the officer Carroll threw away a revolver that he had on his person and a complaint of carrying concealed weapons was made against him. Judge Miller fined him $50 this morning.

It Was a False Alarm.

A crowd was attracted to the corner of Eighth and S streets last night by the franks of a drunken colored man named William Wood. He claimed that he had been stabbed and was dying, when a distress call was sent in. Half a dozen police responded, and Wood was taken to the Eighth Precinct Station house, where it was found he was neither shot nor stabbed but was suffering from delirium tremens.

Hill Gives Himself Up.

James Hill, the colored man who stabbed William Chew last night, appeared at the Sixth Precinct this morning and gave himself up. Chew is still at the Freedman's Hospital, and although his cut is a mere one, it is not thought that it will terminate fatally. Hill has not yet appeared in the Police Court, as the District Attorney is awaiting the result of Chew's wounds.

Attacked in the Dark.

Unknown parties attacked Mr. Jas. J. Kelcher last night at the corner of C street and New Jersey avenue, by striking him on the head with a brick. His wound was dressed at the Sixth Precinct Station House by Dr. Sprague.

Stood Up for Him.

From the New York Evening Sun.
"Do you think your sister likes me, Tommy?"
"Yes. She stood up for you at dinner."

No, nothing much.

Father said he thought you were a good deal of an ass, but his right up and said you wasn't, and told father he ought to know better than judge a man by his looks."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winkler's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and it is the best remedy for diarrhoea. 25c a bottle.

TOOK TURN ABOUT.

Scene in the South in Which a Horse-Whip Played a Part.

"Before the war," said a veteran commercial traveler the other evening to a New York Tribune man, "I was traveling through the South. One day I stood on the veranda of a small town in Georgia waiting for train time. Suddenly a man dashed past me out of the hotel with a cocked revolver in one hand and a cowhide whip in the other, and rushing up to a gentlemanly-looking fellow slowly coming down the street, covered him with the pistol, crying savagely, 'Get up, your arms. I am going to thrash you.'"

The young fellow complied, and the other began to rain blows over his face, neck and shoulders. The rough edges of the strips of raw hide cut and tore the flesh and burned like hot irons. But the victim bravely stood his ground, showing only by his pallor and involuntary twitching of the mouth and eyes the awful agony he was suffering. Evidently the other began to tire and ceased to strike.

"Have you finished now?" calmly asked the young man.

"Yes," sulkily growled the other.

"Then put up your gun."

"No sooner was the revolver restored to its place than, quick as a flash, the young man whipped from his hip pocket a pistol of large caliber, and with a look of fierce determination, cried: 'Now give me that whip and fold your arms.'"

"And what a thrashing he gave him," exclaimed the Tribune man, "he cried and begged for mercy and threw his arms up to protect his face, but all in vain. The avenger cut and cut until he was tired out, then with a swift motion he turned the whip in his hand and struck a heavy blow on the temple with the heavily-loaded butt. The man fell senseless to the ground. The other threw the whip down on his prostrate body and walked into the hotel to wash the blood from his face and neck."

TESTING HUMAN NATURE.

He Wanted to Give Somebody a Chance for a Fortune.

An insurance agent who has an office on Larned street, says the Detroit Free Press, sat alone in the office the other day when a fairly well-dressed stranger entered, passed the time of day and said:

"I called to inquire if you could lend me $5."

"Why, you are a stranger to me," was the reply.

"Certainly, but I ask it as a stranger. Will you lend me five?"

"But you are not recommended."

"Just so, and neither have I any security to offer. Will you, or will you not?"

"I will not."

"You refuse?"

"I do."

"Very well, sir. I happen to be the possessor of $4,000,000 in stocks, bonds and cash. I have no relative to leave it to. I am trying human nature to find a man who dares risk $5 on a principle. When I find him I will make my will in his favor. You have lost. Good day, sir."

Should be Healed.

Puckin' Case—I tell you what, Ship, marriage has a rod in pickle for all, sooner or later. It takes about all my spare money nowadays to buy shoes for the children.

Shippin' Clarke—Ah! you are chastened by a sort of two-foot rule!

Not Proud of Ben.

From the Indianapolis Sentinel.

To be the home of the champion ball club would be a better advertisement for Indianapolis than to be the home of the President. Indianapolis would also be proud of the fact, too, in view of past experience.

A REFORMED TRAINMAN.

You Can Now Understand Him When He Calls the Stations.

On one of the locals, says the Albany Argus, was a pert-looking young lady, evidently just returned home from college. They went to Troy by way of the bridge. When the train had rumbled across the bridge and passed Greenbush the festive trainman banged open the door, placed his hand in position at his mouth and yelled loud enough to wake the dead: "Bull!"

As he finished, the pretty miss beckoned him toward her with a most enchanting smile. He looked rather dumfounded, but went. "Will you kindly tell me what you said, sir?" asked she. "Certainly, miss," he replied. "Oh, did you say 'Bull'?" he asked. "Yes, it did sound a bit like it. Are you suffering from any throat trouble?" "No, miss; not that I know of." The train moved on. As it rolled into the station Iron Works the trainman again rushed in and howled "fill 'em Works," and slammed the door with a fearful bang.

As he came through the car the miss again called him. "What was it you said?" she asked in a sweet voice. "I said 'Iron Works,'" he replied meekly. "Oh, thank you; so sorry to trouble you," replied she. At the next station the trainman came in, shut the door softly and pronounced the name perfectly. He cast a triumphant look in the fair maid's direction and left the car. It is now said that he can be understood by passengers. The maid reformed him.
